Young Gillian is rescued from certain death by a pack of shape-shifting immortals. She would be happy if only her heart did not yearn for real love. This she finds in Aimery Fitz Clare. He is a mortal, second son to a noble house and a master falconer. Little does he dream that his latest "catch" is more than she seems. Gillian has taken a falcon's form to escape her immortal keepers, only to find herself losing her heart to her newest captor.The story itself is very romantic and at times heartbreaking, especially at the end. But Romance novels weren't Romance novels if there wasn't a happy end.Only the subject of shape-shifting immortals is a bit strange to me. This is the only critic I have about this book. That's why it get's only 4 stars. But decide yourself!!
